TO ASK JOHNSON
WHERE HE STANDS
ON PARTY ISSUESRepublican Candidate for Congress to Be Questioned By Party.

William R. Johnston of Freeport, Republican nominee for congressman from the Thirteenth district to succeed Congressman John C. McKenzie, will be asked to reply to a questionnaire, the purpose of which is to reveal his stand regarding Coolidge and Dawes and on other questions of interest to the party, as the result of action taken at the Republican judicial convention at Freeport Thursday afternoon, at which time Judge Harry L. Heer of Galena, was chosen as the party's nominee for circuit judge to succeed O. E. Heard, recently elected to the state supreme court.

Decision to inquire as to Johnston's stand on questions of interest was taken on motion of Z. A. Landers of Oregon that the chairman appoint a committee, composed of the chairmen of the various county delegations, to draft such a questionnaire and submit it to the nominee.

Pres. Coolidge Endorsed.
Coolidge Ticket Endorsed.

The convention adopted the following resolution offered by E. H. Brewster of Dixon:

"We, the delegates to the Republican judicial convention of the fifteenth judicial district, do hereby jointly and severally reaffirm our allegiance to President Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes, the distinguished nominees of the republican party for president and vice president respectively of the United States of America. We pledge ourselves to the renewed our support of the principles of republican party as outlined and embodied in the national republican platform, and we commend the wisdom, conservatism and common sense of President Coolidge and condemn in our uncertain terms the radicalism of those who undermine our constitution, our supreme court and the foundations upon which the prosperity and successes of United States of America has been built.

"Resolved, that we call upon all nominees of the republican party, state, local and others whose names are upon the republican ballots, and to be voted for at the coming presidential election, to a distinct, clear and unequivocal announcement of their allegiance to Coolidge and Dawes, the republican candidates for president and vice president respectively, of the United States."

A resolution endorsing the state administration was also offered and discussed, but was not adopted, the delegates believing the idea to be embodied in the general endorsement of the Coolidge-Dawes platform and the republican party.

In the discussion of the resolution endorsing Coolidge and Dawes, William Leach, Lee county delegate, objected to the phrase "condemning the radicalism of those who are undermining the Constitution and supreme court of the United States." The resolution as it stood was passed over Leach's protestation.

Judge Heer closed the convention with a brief address, in which he thanked the respective delegates for their support, and pledged himself, if elected, to perform the duties of the office in strict accordance with the law.

MRS. SWEETEN HAS GIVEN UP HUNGER
STRIKE; IS HAPPYHer Associate in Crime
Shorn of Title By M. E.
Conference.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Salem, Ill., Sept. 27.—Chances for the improvement of the physical condition of Mrs. Elsie Sweeten, held here in jail on a charge of having poisoned her husband, Wilford Sweeten, were considered better today due to her abandonment of a complete fast last night when she ate her first solid food since last Tuesday. A glass and one-half of milk was all the prisoner had taken since she had been arrested.

Joy permeated her mind today, for tomorrow she was to have with her, her three boys whose future has been her greatest cause of worry.

"My life was as pure as these flowers until I met that man Hight," Mrs. Sweeten exclaimed when Sheriff Vogt brought her a bouquet presented by a Salem woman.

SHORN OF "REVEREND."

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Lawrence M. Hight of Ina no longer bears the prefix "Reverend," for he was deprived of that title by the "select number" of the Southern Illinois Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in session here yesterday and today the action of this committee was to be recorded as an official matter of the conference meeting.

He lost his clerical title after a church trial on a charge of murder, preferred in connection with the poisoning of his wife and of Wilford Sweeten, a member of his last charge, who became the victims of the confessed plot between the former minister and Mrs. Elsie Sweeten, in order that the survivors might be married.

Another minister was shorn of his clerical rights by the conference yesterday, namely C. B. Latimer, former pastor of a Fairfield congregation. The action of the "select number" in the Hight case is final. It was expected last night, as this committee was the jury in the church trial of the accused man and the verdict of the trial jury would be accepted by the conference.

Hight's confession made in the Nashville jail, Thursday evening furnished the most important part of the evidence brought before the church jury. Then came the review of the case by Rev. C. C. Hall, district superintendent, who has been credited with obtaining the full confession from the former minister.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 27.—Knights Templars of Illinois in Grand Conclave here today, voted unanimously to meet next year in Chicago. Springfield, Ill., Sept. 27.—Resumption of a three-year rivalry between drill teams of the Columbia and Saint Bernard Commanderies of Chicago for championship of the state, will be the chief item on the program of the annual convention of Knights Templar, Grand Commandery of Illinois, here this afternoon.

The championship banner was first offered at Chicago in 1922 at which time the Columbia Commandery was victorious. Last year the St. Bernard Commandery won the banner. Only commanderies having a membership of 1,000 or more will compete for this banner.

Drill teams representing 23 other commanderies will compete for another banner at the same time the Columbia and St. Bernard Commanderies hold their competition.

Several concerts were held last night by bands from the various commanderies, the Columbia band playing at the Home of the Friendless, paying for its own meal, and taking up a collection of more than $25 for the home.

Owing to the death of one officer of the Grand Commandery, and the withdrawal of two others, three new officers were selected yesterday, while some of the officers at the bottom of the "stepping stone" route, advanced three stations, instead of the customary one.

Edward D. Wade of Oak Park was elected Grand Sword Bearer, John A. Barber of Springfield Grand Warder and Richard J. Howells, Streator, Captain of the Guard.

Farmer Must be Tried on Two Murder Charges

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 27.—Emil Fricker, wealthy farmer of Highland, Illinois, under two indictments charging murder will be tried on the first charge November 5th and on the second November 12th, the cases having been set yesterday in circuit court here.

Fricker is held here in jail and steadfastly denies that he caused the deaths of John Nungesser, Sept. 15 last, and of Robert Kehrl, May 7, 1920. Both men were husbands of Mrs. Nungesser who had worked for Fricker since she was 15 years old and with whom Fricker was said to have been infatuated.

Jacob Landert, a farm hand, and Eldo Wernle, a son-in-law of Fricker, are indicted jointly with him in the first charge. They are said to have confessed that they had been promised $250 for killing Nungesser. The death of Kehrl had been termed suicide by a coroner's jury, but on an affidavit made by Jacob Kamuf, who has been employed for many years on the Fricker farm, an indictment charging Fricker with killing Kehrl was issued.

Business Men Warned
of Slick Con. Worker

Merchants and business men of northern Illinois are being warned to be on their guard against the operations of a man who is alleged to have operated a confidence game in Ottawa recently by representing himself to be a manufacturer trying to obtain a factory site.

The man for whom warrants have been issued visited Ottawa on Sept. 4, introduced himself as James Olson of Detroit, Mich., and after some negotiations in which he was assisted through introductions to an Ottawa banker by members of the Industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce, a lease was drawn up for one of several vacant buildings that Olson decided would be suitable for his wicker furniture factory. The visitor made out a check for six months' rent. He later deposited a small sum in the bank and after banking hours the next day made purchases amounting to around $1000.

Stating that he would take the lease to Chicago for his brother's signature, as they were supposed to be partners, he then left town and did not return.

EX-GOV. DENEEN GAVE FINE TALK
HERE YESTERDAYRepublican Candidate for Senator in Intelligent Discussion of Issues.

Ex-Governor Charles S. Deneen addressed a good sized crowd which filled the circuit court room yesterday afternoon in behalf of his candidacy for United States Senator from Illinois. The candidate was met at Rockville by a delegation composed of H. C. Warner, R. R. Phillips, E. H. Brewster and J. E. Moyer and escorted him to Dixon. Another delegation of a dozen Whiteside county republicans met him here and escorted him to Prophetstown, where he spoke last evening.

Party integrity, agriculture and foreign policy were subjects which were discussed by the ex-governor. He confined himself to party politics in his brief talk, which proved very interesting. The ex-governor is making a tour of the state with a view of visiting every county in a 24 day campaign.

On National Issues
"Candidates for national offices in the republican party are making a campaign on national issues," he said in opening. "We know what the republican party stands for and has stood for in the past three and one-half years. The democrats have not been in power in this time and the La Follette party, we will not criticize for they have never been in power."

He then discussed international policies and added that under the republican administration the affairs had been conducted with such unscrupulous integrity that the greatest countries of the world were respecting the government of the United States for it.

In discussing domestic affairs the speaker drew attention to many of the accomplishments of the party in the past four years. They paying off of three billions of dollars of the war debt, the reduction of the budget and elimination of 110,000 from the payroll were accomplishments alluded to in his remarks.

"We have in Calvin Coolidge a very able president. He is truly a Yankee and I think that it will for the country. We need a Yankee president of his caliber at this time to impress upon us the ideas of economy and thrift. What other country has done as well as has the United States under the republican party in the past four years?"

Discussed Agriculture.

In discussing agriculture, the candidate said:

"The farmer's difficulties cannot be solved merely by the writing of speeches. Statisticians tell us that we are 25 years ahead of the times in production. What we need is a home market and regulation of production."

"The plank in the Democratic platform relating to the tariff attempts to convey in an indirect way what the Democratic platform heretofore has denied. It is to wit: 'We will denounce the principle of the protective tariff and favors a tax on commodities entering the customs houses that will permit effective competition.'"

"It is obvious that these planks mean that the Democratic party favors reducing the tariff on manufactured products so low that the manufactured products of other lands may compete in American markets with American manufactured products. This is done under the pretext and statement that the American farmer's market for his products in Europe and elsewhere can be improved and enlarged through the purchasing power of money paid to European manufacturers for the products of their cheap labor. It would follow, if the contention is true, that the greater displacement of the products of high priced American labor by low priced European labor the greater would be the prosperity of the farmer."

"According to their theory, the farmer is suffering because of low prices for his products and he can be relieved of his suffering by having the government pay low prices for their labor. But that is to let go of the substance to grasp at the shadow. Our foreign market for agricultural products in 1921 was the greatest the nation has had in its history, save in the World War period. But the farmer went broke in 1921 because of the low prices received by him for his products in Europe. They did not meet the cost of production. The farmer has prospered as the home market has expanded, and after all the home market takes care of more than ninety per cent of his products and is the best assurance for his sound and permanent prosperity. The republican party through its tariff laws created and sustained the home market."

"A party must be before it can do. We cannot destroy a party without hurting the country. In order to

SOUTHERN ILLINOISJohnson City Woman is Said to Have Admitted Killing Mate.

BULLETIN.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Marion, Ill., Sept. 27.—Supplementing earlier confessions Mrs. Ruby Harrington Tate today admitted, officers said, that she put one and a half teaspoons full of poison in buttermilk which her former husband Joseph Harrington drank the night before he died, Sept. 2, last.

Mrs. Tate declared the poison had been purchased at a Johnston City drug store by Robert Tate, a former roomer at the Harrington home whom she married four days ago.

Under further questioning Tate continued to deny there had been any poison conspiracy or that he had any connection with Harrington's death.

Mrs. Tate varied her statements considerably during the grilling by State's Attorney Duty, Sheriff Galligan and others.

In her first confession made in the jail at West Frankfort, a few hours after the couple's arrest, she laid all the blame on Tate, but admitted knowledge of his alleged desire "to get rid of Harrington."

Later, when brought to the Williamson County jail, here, she asserted Tate had purchased about a pound and a half of poison, put a portion in some peas which Harrington ate from his dinner plate at the coal mine where both men were employed, and had given her the remainder to use if her husband still lived.

The woman's alleged confession was made to Constable J. P. Sutton, Police Officer John McKeeney and James Hanson and a West Frankfort newspaper man. The arrest of the couple had been ordered by Sheriff Galligan.

Today's Market Report

Wheat Closed Under a Reaction This Morning

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Although immense export business today lifted all deliveries of wheat and of rye to above the season's previous top prices the market for wheat closed at a reaction due to profit taking sales. The close was easy at 1/4¢ net decline to 1/4¢ advance, Dec. 1.38 1/2¢ and May 1.44 1/2¢.

It was estimated that fully 3,000,000 bushels of wheat was bought today for export.

Corn was especially influenced by predictions that over several states tonight's frosts would be heavy. After opening 1/4¢ to 1/4¢ up, Dec. 1.07 1/2¢, the market in some cases showed a rise of as much as 3/4¢ above yesterday's finish.

Oats followed corn starting unchanged to 1/4¢ higher, Dec. 52 1/2¢.

Later the corn market made an additional upturn, talk being current that a killing frost at this time would be disastrous to corn not fully matured. The close was strong 3/4¢ to 1/4¢ net higher, Dec. 1.10 1/2¢.

In the provision market, lard was 45¢ to 67¢ up with meats varying from 20¢ decline to 15¢ gain.

Woman Asks Support to Bobcat's Ticket

A small crowd gathered in the circuit court room at the court house last evening to listen to Rosalie Jones, attorney of New York City, who explained lengthily her observations of the oil scandal investigation, which she told her hearers, she was privileged to attend. Attorney Jones was in her behalf of the candidacy of La Follette and Wheeler and credited the former with instigating the investigation.

She reviewed briefly the movement for the third party in New York state.

She stated that the progressives feel that the republican party needs a reprimand and that a vote for Calvin

Coolidge on Nov. 4 was to put the stamp of approval on past acts and alleged wrong doings of the republican party. The new party she said was a party of protest the same as the republican party had been in 1860.

A Miss Plum who was a former resident of this city, accompanying the women attorney on her speaking tour, urged the women to vote at the coming election and cast their ballot intelligently. At the close of the meeting Miss Plum sold bonds with which to finance the campaign of the candidates.

H. A. Brooks of this city presided at the meeting and after a brief discussion of national policies, attacked the proposed one hundred million bond issue in Illinois. After a review of the situation, the attorney was suddenly interrupted by one of his listeners who sought to correct him in some of his statements. He then introduced the speakers of the evening.

WOMEN'S INTERESTS

SIMPLEST OF LINES

With an elaborate velvet brocade material such as is employed for this gown, you need only the simplest and least complicated lines. The simple square neckline is outlined by a satin band, one end of which is allowed to hang free and is tasseled. The cuffs of the original sleeves are also of satin. A deep fringe finishes the hem.

Thursdays Reading Circle First Meeting

The Thursday Reading Circle held the first meeting of the year Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Richard Cortright, and it was well attended. Vacation reminiscences given by the members formed the program and proved very interesting as some delightful trips were taken. Later in the afternoon the hostess served delicious refreshments and the pleasant meeting came to a close.

RETURN FROM DELIGHTFUL AUTOMOBILE TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Busby, son Percy and daughter, Mrs. Harley L. Swarts of Chicago, and Mrs. Janet Swarts of DeKalb, composed a party who enjoyed a delightful automobile tour, stopping first at Springfield, at the State Fair. They then motored to St. Louis and then over to Terre Haute, Ind., and Indianapolis. The weather was ideal and the roads excellent and every member of the party enjoyed the outing very much.

Well-Tailored Man is Abomination Says Expert

London, Sept. 26.—The well-tailored man is an abomination from the point of view of hygienics, according to a Harley Street specialist. "All tight fitting, closely woven garments, such as the majority of men wear in town, are unhealthy," he says. "Men wear the wrong sort of clothes and far too many layers of them. I should say men would look a great deal younger at 40 than they do now if they adopted a more sensible costume. I do not suggest that men need to go about streets in jumpers but they might wear more loosely woven tweeds. Waist coats also could be discarded; they are a social convention of no particular use."

The choicest morsel of the deep—that's the oyster. It's more than a seafood—it's a delicacy. Everyone says so after enjoying our oyster specialties.

Here's Miss Adelaide Fog, 4 feet 11 inches, just exactly the same height as Queen Victoria, but not quite so wide, posed in a nightgown of fine linen, handmade and worn by the queen.

The wrapper she has donned in the other picture, was one which modest Queen Victoria used to slip on over her sleeping garment when she went from her bedroom to dressing room or bath. It is a voluminous white garment made of white dimity and trimmed, too, in rows of the fine handmade lace.

Mrs. Fred Dale, Omaha, Neb., owns these gowns, given her by Mrs. Harry Williams, Rolla, N. D., formerly Mary Downing, one of the four personal attendants of Queen Victoria. Embroidered on each is the royal crest, underneath which are the initials, "V. R." for Victoria Regina.

LITTLE BREECHES—
By John Haly.

Don't go much on religion.
I never ain't had no show;
But I've got a middlin' tight grip, sir,
On the handful o' things I know.
I don't pan out on the prophets
And free-will, and that sort of thing,
But I b'lieve in God and the Angels,
Ever since one night last spring.

Come into town with some turnips,
And my little Gabe came along—
Four-year old in the county Could beat him for pretty and strong.

And chipper and saucy,
Always ready to swear and fight—
I'd larn him to chaw tobacco,
Just to keep his milk teeth white.

The snow come down like a blanket
As I passed by Taggart's store;
I went in for a jug of molasses
And left the team at the door.
I was scared at something and started—

I heard one little squall,
And hell-to-split over the prairie
Went team, Little Breeches and all.

Hell-to-split over the prairie!
I was almost froze with skeer;
But we roused up some torches,
And searched for 'em for and near.

At last we struck hosses and wagon,
Snowed under a soft white mound,
Spet, dead beat—but of little Gabe
No hide nor hair was found.

Here all hope soured on me
Of my fellow-critters' aid—
I bested downed on my marrow-bones.

Notched-deep in the snow and prayed—

By this, the torches was played out,
And me and Israel Parr Set off for some wood to a sheep fold

That he said was somewhat thar.

We found it at last, and a little shed
Where they shut up the lambs at night.

I looked in, and seen them huddled thar,
So warm and sleepy and white;
And thar sat Little Breeches and chirped.

As pert as ever you see,
"I want a chaw of tobacco,"
And that what's the matter of me."

How did he get thar? Angels.
He could never have walked in that storm.

They just scooped down and toted him
To whar it was safe and warm,
And I think that saving a little child,
And foting him to his own,
Is a darned sight better business
Than loafing around the Throne.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Adds to Flavor.

Spaghetti is delicious with a high-

by seasoned tomato sauce and grated cheese.

Cleaning Mahogany.

You can clean a mahogany table very nicely by rubbing with a rag dipped in vinegar and then rubbing with a cloth dampened in paraffin.

Removing Fingermarks.

Fingermarks on white or painted surface may be removed by rubbing with a clean cloth dipped in vinegar then wiped with a cloth soaked out of hot water.

Salt and Vinegar Paste.

When baking fish do not neglect line the pan with waxed paper then there will be no sticky dish to wash afterward.

Served on Toast.

Before fish may be creamed and erved on toast with a garnish of red-bellied eggs.

AVE RETURNED TO ILLINOIS

turned from St. Louis to reside in

IT DOES MAKE A DIFFERENCE.

You frequently hear a man say in lemonade one: "Aw, it don't make much difference who's elected. The people are the goat, no matter who wins."

This indifferent attitude toward politics is as contagious as smallpox. And it is spreading. More than any other factor, it is responsible for the increasing tendency of citizens to fail to cast their ballots—nearly half staying away from the polls in the 1920 presidential election.

Shout it from the house-tops: It does make a difference who is elected. American municipalities long since learned that it does make a difference whether a community's chief of police is a strict law enforcer or in league with the underworld.

They long since learned that plunging a nation into war and sending the voters out to be shot at, depends principally on the make-up of Congress.

They long since learned that it does make a difference whether their boss in business is kindly and fair or heartless and slave-driving.

And it does make a difference, who's elected to any political job—to all political jobs —from president down to dog catcher.

The cynical growl that it "Don't make no difference who's elected," is big talk. It is preposterously false, obviously false.

In electing the president and other political office holders this fall you are to large extent determining what will happen to your pocketbook's contents in the next four years.
The choice of president and other national employees will unquestionably have an important effect in shaping the cost of living and the conditions under which the rising generation will live.

Any man with common sense will see this.
And he will not fail to vote.

Before voting, he will listen to both sides
—rather, to all sides—in an attempt to arrive at the truth before selecting his favorite.
Political speeches are not as interesting as Thrill Murders and baseball and movies, but they occasionally have horse sense and, if backed by popular support, can lead to solutions of many of our gravest problems.

Increasingly, as the American people have taken politics less seriously, economic problems have become more serious. Accept the politician's bunk with a grin, in one ear and out the other. But watch for Common Sense, then back it—for your own and your family's prosperity, welfare and happiness.

SECRET OF SUCCESS.

That great railroad builder, James J. Hill, once asked for the secret of success, replied:
"The ability to save money is the secret of all success. If you can save, you will succeed, if not you might as well give up now, the seed of success is not in you."

There are a goodly number of people still nightly taken with the idea that thrift is all senses. They wear themselves out trying to find some short cut to success. They yearn for large profits and quick returns. The saving habit appears too slow. The almost miraculous power of money to increase does not appeal to them.

Yet the advice of men like Hill, and the life stories of similar leaders all hinge upon the ability to save, and go back to Franklin's wise axiom always to spend a little less than one earns.

The provident have always prospered, but today and tomorrow more than ever before.
There will be drones as well as workers in the human hive. But the workers will increase in power, if not in number, and dominate the affairs of the drones.

INFLAMING YOUTHFUL MINDS.

"Mobilization demonstrations of the civil and industrial resources of the country, when we are at peace with the world, unnecessarily inflammate the mind of the youth," says Charles W. Bryan, accepting the democratic nomination for vice president.

That sounds like the socialist or I. W. W. soapbox orator we heard denouncing the practice of teaching school children to march with flags over their shoulders. It was all a part of the plot, he said.

FOOD.

The number of Americans working on farms has increased 15 per cent since 1900.
But they are growing 40 per cent more food.
Figures furnished by the expert, Davis Friday.

Scientific agricultural methods, all the way from commercial fertilizer to tractors, have more than made up the shortage of manpower on the farms. They country, of course, is growing, and so is the food market. What is overproduction of crops now will be shortage within a few years.

AWAY.

Thirty-eight out of every 100 women in four typical cities are working and earning money outside their homes. This is revealed by a government check-up in Jacksonville, Passaic, Butte and Wilkes-Barre.

More than half of these bread-winning women are or have been married. And 61 per cent of the married women workers live with "wage-earning husbands."

The pinch of economics is destroying the American home.

GERMANS.

For the first month since 1921, Germany admits that she had a foreign trade surplus in July. Exports exceeded imports by four and a half million dollars.

This isn't a big sum, as such things go.
But it is important because it may be the turn of the tide. Only by selling more than she buys can Germany pay reparations on any large scale.

BORROWER.

Big bankers say 400 million dollars worth of European securities will be floated in America the last four months this year.

We trust that the loans represented by these securities will be paid back to Americans faster than the war loans.

Our idea of being out of work is having a job figuring what is made by cussing the weather.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO 6.—WHAT HAPPENED TO THE SLEEPY SAND

"I see we have company," said the Sour Old Woman as pleasantly as she could.

Back came Nancy and Nick to the Sour Old Woman's house under the water-fall.

They had the sleepy sand with them and all they had to do was to get the Sand Man out of the Sour Old Woman's cellar and start him off to his home in Shout-Ey-Town.

Nancy peeped in through the Sour Old Woman's cellar window and there lay the Sand Man still fast asleep.

"Sit! Sit!" called Nick softly.

But it didn't do a bit of good for the poor fellow was tired out.

So Nick took some little pebbles and threw in, and at that the Sand Man sat up and stretched and yawned and said sleepily, "Ho, hum!
Where am I?"

"Hush!" whispered Nancy. "You're in the cellar of the Sour Old Woman's house. See if you can get up the stairs and slip out."

So the Sand Man peeped up through a hole in the floor, and seeing no one, slipped up the cellar steps and was tip-toeing out through the kitchen when the Sour Old Woman popped out from behind the stove and Eena Meena the Magician stepped out of the cupboard.

"I see we have company," said the Sour Old Woman as pleasantly as she could.

"Why, don't you remember?" said the Sand Man in surprise. "You told us to go to the cellar and then you forgot and shut us in."

"Why so I did!" said the Sour Old Woman. "So I did! My memory is so short I can't count up to a dozen any more. And your friends—where are they?"

The poor Sand Man didn't know what to say exactly. He didn't want to say that the Twins had escaped.

for then the Sour Old Woman and her friend, the Wizard, would start to hunt and they would be sure to discover the Twins outside.

But Nancy and Nick had heard every word and they knew there was going to be some trouble.

"Quick, Nick," said Nancy. "Dump all the magic sand out of the sack into that hollow stump, and fill the bag up with common sand."

So Nick dumped all of the Sand Man's magic sleepy sand out of the sack and filled it up with common sand that lay near the water-fall.

Then they went to the Sour Old Woman's front door and knocked.

And just in time.

Because the Sand Man didn't know what to say when the Sour Old Woman asked him for the third time where the Twins were.

"We had an errand to do so we left," said Nancy. "You see it was time for all the babies to have their naps and someone just had to take the sleepy sand around. The poor Sand Man was all worn out with his hay fever."

The Sour Old Woman made a wry face. "Sleepy sand indeed!" said she.
"We'll soon fix that. Eena Meena, say your charm."

So Eena Meena said:

"Slumber now you cannot make,
Instead you'll keep folks wide-awake."

And he waved his right hand over the bag of sleepy sand.

"My goodness! You can't do that," gasped the poor Sand Man. "What will the babies do?"

"They'll lay to bed without," said Eena Meena. "All three of you may go now."

Actions

If folks did all the things that they say they will do, what a wonderful world this would be. That sort of a stand would be something quite new, but it's something we never will see.

The talking we do is quite cheap, so they say, and perhaps that's the reason we chatter. But seldom is that we make talking pay, which is likely the thing that's the matter.

A fellow's old mind sets a wonderful pace when he lets it just run as loud as words.

it will. It's working and planning all over the place in a whirlwind that threatens to kill.

And then he decides on big things that he'll do. All he needs is the right kind of backing. The planning is there and the talking is, too, but the needed ambitions is lacking.

"This well to remember, when spouting away, that talking is flighty, like bills. It's always been true and it's still true today, that actions speak louder than words."

SENATORS LOST TO BOSTON AND RACE TIGHTENSHarris' Men Must Win Remaining Three to Clinch Pennant.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington is upset today following a social affair not exactly on the program of welcome for returning baseball heroes—a Boston Tea Party with the Red Sox acting as hosts to the Senators.

Hospitality was forced upon the blushing debutantes of the baseball season to such an extent that even Walter Johnson staggered off the field after being hit on the elbow with a high ball served by Pitcher Ferguson of the Red Sox.

It was Johnson's first defeat after winning thirteen straight games. The Senators responded by presenting the game to their hosts 2-1. The Yankees thoughtfully defeated Philadelphia 7-1 and the Senators now lead New York by only one game in the American League.

Must Win Next Three
The leaders were further handicapped by the injury to Johnson who may not be able to take his turn again in the box in any of the three games remaining to be played. As a result, Manager Harris has placed a ban on further social affairs and issued orders to his men to apply themselves to the serious business of winning the three remaining games in order to clinch the pennant.

The Giants and Robins reacted yesterday. New York by winning two of three from the Phillies can reach their goal even though Brooklyn wins its remaining two from Boston.

Pittsburgh awoke from its insomnia at the Polo Grounds and took two games from the Cubs by scores of 9-3 and 10-6.

Detroit beat the White Sox 8-2 in the other American League contest.

Senators' Lone Effort.
Veatch made the first significant move in the Boston Tea Party by singling in the fourth with one out and went to third when Boone singled to center. Joe Harris drove in the first run with a single to center and Lee sent the winning run home with another single after Ezzell forced Harris.

Washington made its lone effort against Ferguson in the eighth. Ruel singled past short, but was forced by Liebold batting for Johnson. Leffler, batting for McNeely, doubled to left center scoring Liebold with the only run. Manager Harris and Rice were infold out. Rice failed to hit safely for the first time after establishing a season's consecutive hitting record of 31 games.

The Yankees, with Pennoch holding the Athletics to eight hits, made ten hits off four pitchers and scored an easy victory.

Rank and File of Teams
Get Into Action Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Sept. 27.—The bulging barrier which has been keeping intercollegiate and interscholastic football into the background for the past month, will be sprung today. More than 300 teams representing virtually every college and university from coast to coast and Canada to Mexico, will swing into action with few exceptions.

These exceptions include the proverbial "Big Three" Yale, Harvard and Princeton which will defer their inaugural games for a week. Most of the other leading teams in the east, south and west will open their seasons with traditional first game rivals. The leading teams in the Western Conference have also elected to lay off for one more week before starting but the rank and file of college teams in all sections of the country are scheduled to pry the lid today.

Three Big Ten Gridiron
Teams Get Baptism Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Sept. 27.—The 1924 gridiron baptisms of three Western Conference eleven and other mid-western teams commenced today with the baseball pennant scramble for the spot light of sports.

Purdue engaged Wabash, Wisconsin met North Dakota and Indiana played Rose Poly in games calculated to give the customary early season tests of favorites.

The Purdue boiler-makers, slated to meet Ohio State at Columbus next opener, had a battle on its hands to win from Wabash, with which it tied seven all last season.

Equal in interest was the Badger-North Dakota clash with Wisconsin the favorite.

The veteran Indiana squad had slight fears of the result of its encounter with Rose Poly.

Armore, Penna., Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Bobby Jones of Atlanta and George Von Elm of Los Angeles meet today in the final 36 hole round of the National Amateur Golf Tournament.

One or the other will be the new champion late this afternoon to succeed Max Marston of Philadelphia who lost his title yesterday when Von Elm defeated him 7-5. Jones advanced to the final round by defeating Francis Outmet of Boston 11 and 10.

Strides With French Horse

New York, Sept. 27.—Six of the leading thoroughbreds in America will match strides with Epinard, the French champion, at Aqueduct track today in the second of a series of three international races in which the French horse will compete in this country.

OLD TY COBB IS BIG HERO AS '24
SEASON IS ENDEDGeorgia Peach Has Broken en Many Records in National Game.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Sept. 27.—Tyrus Raymond Cobb, brilliant leader of the Detroit Tigers, winding up his nineteenth year as a major league star, today stands out as the greatest record breaker in baseball.

The famed Georgia Peach, never out of the select 300 class in hitting with the exception of 1905, when he first joined the Tigers and played a part of the season, is finishing the 1924 race as the only player in major league history who has batted above .300 for eighteen consecutive years.

Cobb's average today, with the season drawing to a close is .337. A year ago he finished as runner-up to Geo. Sisler for the 1923 championship with a mark of .401.

When the veteran Hans Wagner passed out of the National League in 1913, he left behind him a record of having batted .300 or better for seventeen years.

Another record held by Cobb, which previously was shared with Willie Keeler, that of making 200 hits or more for eight consecutive years, has been broken. Cobb has passed the 200 hit mark again this season, making his ninth consecutive year in which he has collected 200 hits or more.

Cobb has scored 100 or more runs a year for nine consecutive years, and already had passed this mark having registered 107 runs, giving him a new record of nine years of scoring the century or better.

Holds Other Records
Cobb also holds the record for runs scored and safe hits in life time. In addition he had re-established the highest individual life time batting average in a major league; the record of the most games played in the league; the most years leading a major league in batting; twelve; the most singles; the most triples; the most extra base hits; and the highest total of bases.

Babe Ruth is thirteen homers behind his record of 59, having failed to add to his string of 46 circuit blows. The Bambino, however, is the best in the majors for four batters' honors. He also leads as a run getter, having registered 142 times. In making 193 hits, up to the time the

COOLIDGE AGAIN LEADING IN SECOND WEEK'S RETURNSLaFollette Retains Second Place As 272,299 Votes
Are Tabulated.

Coolidge again leads in the second week's returns of The Literary Digest's huge presidential poll published today with LaFollette second and Davis third.

Of a total of 272,299 votes tabulated Coolidge has 162,473, LaFollette 63,534, and Davis 42,611.

In California, LaFollette is running Coolidge a strong second, having 19,829 tallies to the President's 22,848. Davis is leading the field in Texas and Virginia and is also ahead of LaFollette in Ohio, Kansas, and West Virginia. In all other states the Senator from Wisconsin is leading the Democratic candidate.

"The poll at first blush" The Digest states, "may not seem very cheering to the Democrats, but a slight inspection will show the fact that, with two exceptions, the Democratic states are still to be heard from and when they begin to flood in their ballots, the figures may have another story to tell."

"In the meantime it may be interesting to observe how firmly the LaFollette strength is holding up in California. The first returns, reported last week, gave Coolidge 1624, LaFollette 1561 and Davis 233. This week, the figures stand: Coolidge 22,848, LaFollette 19,829, and Davis 3008. Most Republican political prophets have placed California in the certain column for Coolidge, and founded their computations on a total electoral vote in which the Pacific State's thirteen ballots were included.

"California, it is recalled, upset one election, not long since, and from present indications, the State is far from firmly planted in the Republican column.

"The drift of votes, shown in a general way by a tabulation of 'How the Same Voters Voted in 1920,' seems to suggest a loss of Republican strength to LaFollette in California, a much smaller loss in Illinois, Pennsylvania, and New York. Analyzing the vote in more detail, it appears from the markings of the ballots, that of Mr. Coolidge's 22,848 votes from California 16,976 of the voters were Republicans in the last elections, 1431 were Democrats, and 4364 either cast no vote or neglected to declare their previous affiliation.

"Of Mr. LaFollette's vote of 19,829, 10,975 say that they voted the Republican ticket in 1920 and 4010 say they voted Democratic with 5134 not voting. It appears, therefore, that Mr. LaFollette is drawing heavily from both sides in the Coast State.

In Illinois, the LaFollette vote of 12,726 is drawn from 2318 former Democrats and 6715 former Republicans, with 3353 who did not vote in 1920. Mr. Coolidge's vote of 36,309 in the same State is drawn 28,635 from former Republicans, and 1958 from former Democrats, with 5647 not specifying.

"Mr. Davis' vote of 8147, however, includes almost as many former Republican votes as Mr. Coolidge's includes former Democrats. In spite of his total vote of less than one-fourth of the number credited to Mr. Coolidge, the Democratic candidate has captured 1366 ex-Republicans. The whole matter of this floating vote, will, of course, gain in significance with increasing returns."

"Of course," The Digest explains, "it must be taken into consideration that the present poll is just getting under way, with 1,000,000 ballots per day still being mailed out to various parts of the country, that 36 of the 48 states are still to be heard from, and that there is thus far only a comparatively small vote from the twelve states now reported. Two weeks may considerably change the complexion of the returns.

"Postal returns come back quicker from the cities than from the rural districts, so that the early returns in a poll of this sort represents a preponderance of 'city voters,' just as the early returns on election night are from the centers of population.

"The farming districts will be heard from later. The 15,000,000 ballots of The Digest's poll have been distributed in such a way that the farming population is sure of its full quota of ballots, and farmers, by and large, are likely to be more ready than are the city dwellers, to take an interest in marking their ballots in such a political test as The Digest is conducting."

TALK ABOUT THIS SUMMER? 1816 IS STILL THE BEANEREvidently Old Sol Forgot
He Had a Job During Summer Long Ago.

Erratic weather conditions prevailing this season, recall in a measure the historic year, without a summer. For more than a century the record for 1816 has been unequalled.

From the pages of an old diary, begun in 1810, and now the property of R. F. Walters, of Reedsburg, Wis., is taken the unbeatable weather report. The record in the old book was kept unbroken from 1810 to 1840, and so far as official records go back, its entries are verified by those of the U. S. weather bureau.

The month of January, 1816, was so mild that throughout the northern parts of the United States people allowed their fires to go out and used fuel only for cooking. There were but few cold spells all through the month, warm spring like weather prevailing the greater portion of the time. February and March also were warm, though the former was colder than January. March came in like the proverbial lion and made its exit like a spring sheep. April came in warm and balmy with a tinge of spring of the air, but as the days grew longer the air became colder and by the first of May the temperature was much like that of winter.

Snow and ice prevailed throughout the latter part of the month and buds were frozen. Ice half an inch thick coated ponds and streams, corn was frozen in the ground and fields were planted again and again until farmers gave up because of the lateness of the season.

June was the coldest month of roses ever experienced in America. Ice and frosts were as common as buttercups in ordinary years.

July came in with ice and snow and on July 4, ice as thick as a window pane formed on rivers and lakes throughout the New England states.

To the surprise of everyone August proved the worst month of all. Almost every green thing in the city and country, not only in the United States, but Europe as well, was blasted by frost.

Snow fell 30 miles from London on August 30, and newspapers received from England stated that 1816 would go down in history as the year without a summer. There was great privation and thousands of persons would have perished had it not been for an abundance of fish and game.

A farmer near Teysberry, Vt., owned a large corn field. He built fires around this to keep the frosts away. Nearly every night he and his men took turns tending these and watching that the corn did not freeze. He was rewarded for his tireless labor.

Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis, repeating as 1924 batting champion of the National League, settled down to a steeper pace in hitting, hovering around the .420 mark, which he hopes to beat before the close of the season, thus setting a new high record for modern baseball. The high mark of .420 is jointly held by Ty Cobb and George Sisler. Hornsby's latest average, including games of Wednesday is .421.

In hitting, Zack Wheat, Brooklyn veteran, established himself as runner up to Hornsby. Zack is batting .373, fourteen points ahead of Ross Youngs of the Giants, who passed Hazen Cuyler of the Pirates by the narrowest of margins. Cuyler is fourth in the list with .357.

Jack Fournier of Brooklyn held his place as the National League's home run king with a total of 27—only two more than Hornsby. Carey of the Pirates increased his stolen base record of 46.

The Giants, prospective four times champion of the National League, top the league in hitting with .300. The Giants also have the prospects of increasing their total runs scored to the neighborhood of 900 at the rate they have been crossing the plate. In fielding, too, the Giants reveal their class, ranking second to Boston.

The thirty-first annual convention of the Lee County W. C. T. U. is in session today at the Methodist church at this place. The attendance is very good. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Mary E. Strook of Dixon, president. Miss Lorene Crum sang a solo "Always Singing in His Love," with Mrs. Conlon of this place at the piano. Miss Lorene is one of our own girls and never fails to please her audience. The devotional service was led by Mrs. Robert Johnson of this place, who read the scripture and offered the morning prayer. Mrs. Olive Buck of this place gave the address of welcome and most heartily welcomed the Union of Lee county as guests of the local union and assured them that all would be done to make their stay a pleasant one. During her address she told of the name of the union, Women's Christian Temperance Union, giving a brief history of the organization. Mrs. Buck gave the response and most sincerely thanked the union for their efforts in entertaining them. Her address was full of very helpful suggestions, and ideas that were they carried out would make a much better place for every one to live in. The president's greeting by Mrs. Strook was full of thankfulness to the various unions for their kindness to her and their efforts along the line of the work.

Carroll Labman, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Labman gave a splendid address on "Election." Miss Janette Dewey of Dixon read a paper "Spies News About Prohibition." Miss Dewey surely encouraged all to continue to work for prohibition, that while some think it has not been of any help yet from her paper one could not help but know that a great work had been done by prohibition.

Following this president appointed the following committees:

Resolutions—Miss Callie Morgan, Dixon; Mrs. Oliver Buck, Franklin Grove; Mrs. Ford, Ashton.

Registration—Mrs. Timothy, Franklin Grove; Mrs. Kline, Dixon; Mrs. Chris Gross, Amboy.

Mrs. Miesman offered noontide prayer, after which the delegates and friends enjoyed a picnic dinner in the church basement.

The afternoon session was opened by singing America after which Mrs. Alma Lewis of Amboy offered prayer. The reports of the unions were next in order. Mrs. Lizzie Gray gave the report for the Amboy union Mrs. Flora Timothy the report for the Franklin union. Mrs. George Dench the Ashton report, and Mrs. Grace Carpenter the Dixon report. The reports all were very good and showed that the unions were doing good work in their various towns. Rev. Sittler of the Franklin Grove M. E. church favored with a solo "My Task" and gave an encore "Mother of Mine." Mrs. James Conlon accompanied him at the piano. Sheriff Risley of Lee county then gave a splendid address, "Prohibition Work Done in Lee County." He gave some very interesting accounts of various attempts to take bootleggers. He also paid high tribute to our state's attorney Mark C. Keller and our county judge, John M. Crabtree, stating that they are never too busy to assist him in any way whatsoever. That they have stood by him in any case against liquor. At the close of his address Mrs. J. E. Rangan of Dixon gave two splendid readings which were very much appreciated.

The convention then was most happily favored with a vocal duet from Mrs. and Mrs. Brandt of Dixon. They gave another number, which was fine. Mrs. Strook accompanied them at the piano. The address of the afternoon was then given by Mrs. Minnie C. Coventry, state organizer, Edwardsville. Before she began her address she spoke of how fortunate Lee county was in having a state's attorney, a county judge and sheriff all on the same of temperance, and working toward the end. She said as such thing existed in the three counties near her home. After a ten minutes recess the election of officers was held, which resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. Mary Strook, Dixon.

Vice President—Mrs. Mary Small, Amboy.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Lizzie Gray, Amboy.

Corresponding Secretary—Miss Carrie Swartz, Dixon.

Treasurer—Mrs. Fackler, Ashton.

Auditor—Mrs. Minnie Labman, of Franklin Grove.

Superintendents—

Anti-Narcotics—Mrs. Alma Lewis, Amboy.

Evangelistic—Mrs. Emma Gelsler, Dixon.

Temperance and Mission—Mrs. O. D. Buck, Franklin Grove.

Scientific Temperance Instruction—Miss Janette Dewey, Dixon.

Christian Citizenship and Law Enforcement—Mrs. Mary Small, Amboy.

Child Welfare—Mrs. Ina Smith, Amboy.

Flower Mission—Mrs. M. Holley, Franklin Grove.

It was voted to organize a L. T. L. Mrs. Dodson of Dixon was appointed head of the same. It was also voted that they organize a Y. P. B. of which Mrs. Nicholson was appointed secretary.

The evening session was opened by the Methodist orchestra which favored with two numbers, after which Rev. L. V. Sittler had charge of the devotional service. The orchestra played another piece. The Franklin Union led in singing "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mrs. Reagan again favored with two more readings, a vocal duet by Miss Lorene Crum and Mrs. Sittler which was very pleasing. Rev. Sittler was very pleasing. Rev. Sittler accompanied at the piano. Miss Mabel Kinney of Amboy read a splendid paper, "Early History of Lee County W. C. T. U." which was very interesting. Mrs. Minnie C. Coventry gave the address of the evening. At the close of the address the registration committee reported that ninety had registered. The resolutions were read by Miss Kinney. Rev. O. D. Buck of the Franklin Grove church closed the meeting with prayer. This is one of the largest conventions that has been held in several years. Much credit is given Mrs. Strook the president for her untiring efforts that the county work might be a success, and that good work might be done.

Courtney S. Smith was born at Franklin Grove Dec. 28, 1902, and departed this life at Washington, D. C., Sept. 15, 1924, aged 21 years, 8 months and 18 days.

He lived in the country until the age of nine years at which time he moved with his parents to the present home in this place. He graduated with the class of 1920, being president of the class. Funeral hymns were sung by a quartet composed of Mrs. Harold Kelley, and Miss Ethel Knouse, Glenn Pfoutz and Roy Miller. The pall bearers were Albert Gross, Leslie Veybright, Richard Buck, Wilbur Dyart, Montelle Stephens and Galen Naylor, who were members of his graduating class. The floral tributes bespoke the high esteem that Courtney's relatives and friends had for him. Courtney was most popular with all who knew him, and all of whom regret his untimely death and are extending to the grief-stricken family their most sincere sympathy. Those attending the funeral from a distance were: Miss Ella Smith, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. John Gray, Mrs. John Eike and daughter of Milledgeville; Mrs. Frank Eckler of Lanark; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Capital's Mysterious Tunnel are Explained
By Associated Press Local Wire
Washington, Sept. 27.—The mystery of the labyrinth of underground passageways discovered last Wednesday, in an exclusive residential section of the capital, a neighborhood of embassies and mansions, has been solved, Harrison G. Dyar, a quiet and unassuming individual employed as an entomologist in the Smithsonian Institution, put an end to speculations that ran the gamut from German spies to bootleggers, when he told a newspaper reporter he dug the passageways for recreation after office hours.

"Digging tunnels is my hobby; there's really no mystery about it," Mr. Dyar was quoted as saying when he rather reluctantly told the story to quiet the speculations of the imagination which have been filling the press ever since the wheels of a motor truck sank through a crust of earth and revealed the tunnels. The scientist explained that he found cave digging a helpful form of exercise as well as an entertainment for his young son. The passageways on which he worked for a period of about ten years were now nearly ten years old he said, having been constructed on property he owned in the rear of a house from which he has since moved.

Mr. Dyar had no explanation for the presence in the tunnels of German newspapers, which bore dates in 1917, after his disposal of the property.

Gen. Dawes Disclaims Credit Above That Due the Others.

By Associated Press Local Wire
Dawes Special, En Route to Chicago, Sept. 27.—Charles G. Dawes, republican candidate for vice president, who headed the experts committee that drafted the European reparations settlement plan, declared the "proposal was successful and is going to be successful simply because the whole world was just about as sick of politicians as the American public is getting to be."

This view was expressed by Mr. Dawes in a campaign address last night at St. Cloud, Minn., a German center, where he had been urged to explain the reparations plans and its effect upon Germany. It was his first statement on the plans since he began his speaking campaign as the republican vice presidential nominee.

Mr. Dawes disclaimed credit for the plan, asserting that "the truth compels me to say that while my name is attached to that report, because I was chairman of the committee, it was a group effort."

To Continue Attacks.

The reference to the reparations settlement was made by Mr. Dawes as a preface to an address in which he continued the attacks on the La Follette independent candidacy that have marked his two day Minnesota tour. Before leaving St. Cloud, early today on the return trip to Chicago he announced his determination to continue these attacks in the eleven rear platform addresses he is to make today traveling through southern Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Today's trip included ten minute platform talks at Wabash and Winona, Minn., and La Crosse, Sparta, New Lisbon, Portage, Madison, Janesville, Stoughton and Bardwell, Wis.

The day's travel as planned, led Mr. Dawes through a section generally regarded as strongly favorable to the LaFollette movement.

Spotted Typhus Adds to Leningrad Flood Horror
By Associated Press Local Wire
Leningrad, Sept. 27.—Spotted typhus has broken out in this storm-swept city, adding its horrors to the flood. Over a hundred cases of the disease are being registered daily and doctors and nurses are overwhelmed in the work of caring for the patients.

The museums of the city suffered greater losses than any other institutions in the flood. A great part of the priceless collections of paintings, tapestry and antiques was destroyed.

The suburb of Peterhof was harder hit than any other of the adjacent towns. In the palace the water rose to a height of two feet, seriously damaging the magnificent period furniture and the paintings. The steamship wharf with its historical collection of cannon was wrecked and washed away while the roads leading to Peterhof Park were completely washed out. Nearly 1,900 trees were uprooted.

The property loss it now is estimated, will run into millions.

ECZEMA

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S.S.S. are really amazing!

MANY people imagine that eczema or tetter needs only some external application on the skin in order to get relief. This is because the attention of the sufferer is so violently directed to the intense burning and itching which accompanies this disease. Try as they may—permanent relief will never be theirs until the disease laden blood is thoroughly cleansed.

We know there is one thing that stops eczema and that is more red-blooded cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blooded cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it. Skin eruptions, eczema, with all its fiery, skin digging torture, and its soul-tearing, unreachable itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting giants of Nature! S.S.S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1836.

S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body strengtheners known to us mortals! When you put these facts together, then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it cures eczema, clears the skin, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, and gives you that more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Truth Is Stranger Than Fiction Love Is Greater Than Gold

The writer weaves his tale—strange, sensational, almost impossible and yet the weirdest stories of fiction are but the truth touched by genius. The author's passing fancy conjured from the depths of his imagination holds no theme that is not surpassed in actual life.

And sometimes we, struggling and striving for gold, become discouraged in our effort to get ahead. Yet let one of our loved ones be in danger and we willingly give all we have and all we can mortgage in our blind efforts to try to save them.

Indeed—truth is stranger than fiction, love is greater than gold but too often we do not realize it until too late.

Fiction would indeed seem but a fabrication of lies were it to tell such a tale as this.

No writer
such a grue-ever wrote some tale as this

More Than 11,000 Persons Killed Each Year in Railroad Accidents—22,852 Persons Killed Each Year by Automobiles—More Than 2821 Every Month, 651 Every Week, 92 Every Day—57 Automobile Accidents Occur Every Hour, 1,370 Every Day, 500,000 Every Year.

And strange as it may seem this is not fiction but actual facts based on the most careful statistics. And this toll, terrible as it is, does not give all the casualties resulting from travel accidents.

If you knew that you were to be one of the next misfortunates surely not all the gold you possess, nor all you could borrow could keep you from making provision for your loved ones. Their welfare is really what you are working for.

Then realize the truth—know your danger—provide for your loved ones now while you can— and you can at practically no cost under the plan provided by this newspaper.

CHAPTER XXIII (continued)

Outside on the poop-deck he found Asad alone now with Marzak under the awning. Night had fallen, the great crescent lanterns on the stern rail were alight and cast a lurid glow along the vessel's length, picking out the shadowy forms and gleaming faintly on the naked backs of the slaves in their serried ranks along the benches, many of them bowed already in attitudes of uneasy slumber. Another lantern swung from the mainmast, and yet another from the poop-rail for the Basha's convenience. Overhead the clustering stars glittered in a cloudless sky of deepest purple. The wind had fallen entirely, and the world was wrapped in stillness broken only by the faint rustling break of waves upon the beach at the cove's end.

Sakrel-Bahr crossed to Asad's side, and begged for a word alone with him.

"I am alone," said the Basha curtly.

"Marzak is nothing, then," said Sakrel-Bahr. "I have long suspected it."

Marzak showed his teeth and growled inarticulately, whilst the Basha, taken aback by the ease reflected in the captain's careless, mocking words, could but quote a line of the Koran with which Fuzileh of late had often nauseated him.

"A man's soul is the partner of his soul. I have no secrets from Marzak. Speak, then, before him, or else he slanders and departs."

"He may be the partner of thy soul, Asad," replied the corsair with his hold mockery, "but I give thanks to Allah he is not the partner of mine. And what I have to say in some sense concerns my soul."

"I thank thee," cut in Marzak, "for the justice of thy words. To be the partner of thy soul were to be an infidel unbelieving dog."

"Thy tongue, O Marzak, is like thine archery," said Sakrel-Bahr. "Aye—in that it pierces treachery. Nay—in that it aims at what it can not hit. Now, Allah, pardon me! Shall I grow angry at such words as thine? Hath not the One proven full oft that he who calls me infidel dog is a liar predestined to the pit? Are such victories as mine over the fleets of the unbelievers vouchsafed by Allah to an infidel? Foolish blasphemer, teach thy tongue better ways lest the All-wise strike thee dumb."

"Peace!" growled Asad. "Thine arrogance is out of season."

"Happy so," said Sakrel-Bahr, with a laugh. "And my good sense, too, it seems. Since thou wilt retain beside thee this partner of thy soul, I must speak before him. Have I thy leave to say?"

Least such leave should he denied him, he dropped forthwith to the vacant place beside Asad and tucked his legs under him.

"Lord," he said, "there is a rift dividing us who should be united for the glory of Islam."

"It is of thy making, Sakrel-Bahr," said the sullen answer, "and it is for thee to mend it."

"To that end do I desire thee, Asad. The cause of this rift is yonder."

And he jerked his thumb backward over his shoulder toward the poop-house.

"If we remove that cause, of a surety the rift itself will vanish, and all will be well again between us."

He knew that never could all be well again between him and Asad. He knew that by virtue of his act of defiance he was irrevocably doomed, that Asad having feared him once, having dreaded his power to stand successfully against his face and overbear his will, would see to it that he never dreaded it again. He knew that if he returned to Algiers there would be a speedy end to him. His only chance of safety lay, indeed, in stirring up mutiny upon the spot and striking swiftly, venturing all upon that desperate throw. And he knew that this was precisely what Asad had cause to fear. Out of this assurance had he conceived his present plan, deeming that if he offered to heal the breach, Asad might pretend to consent so as to weather his present danger, making doubly sure of his vengeance by waiting until they should be home again.

Asad's gleaming eyes considered him in silence for a moment.

"How remove that cause?" he asked. "Wilt thou atone for the mockery of thy marriage, pronounce her divorced and relinquish her?"

"That were not to remove her," replied Sakrel-Bahr. "Consider well, Asad, what is thy duty to the Faith. Consider that upon our unity depends the glory of Islam. Were it not sinful, then, to suffer the intrusion of aught that may mar such unity? Nay, nay, what I propose is that I should be permitted—assisted even—to bear out the project I had formed, as already I have frankly made confession. Let us put to sea again at dawn—or this very night if thou wilt—make for the coast of France, and there set her ashore that she may go back to her own people and we be rid of her disturbing presence. Then we will return—there is time and to spare—and here or elsewhere lurk in wait for this Spanish argosy, seize the booty and sail home in amity to Algiers, this incident, this little cloud in the splendor of our comradeship behind us and forgotten as if it had never been. Wilt thou, Asad—for the glory of the Prophet's Law?"

The bait was cunningly presented, so cunningly that not for a moment did Asad or even the malicious Marzak suspect it to be just a bait and no more. It was his own life, become a menace to Asad, that Sakrel-Bahr was offering him in exchange for the life and liberty of that Frankish slave-girl, but offering it as if unconscious that he did so.

Asad considered, temptation gripping him. Prudence urged him to accept, so that affecting to heal the dangerous breach that now existed he might carry Sakrel-Bahr back to Algiers, there, beyond the aid of any friendly mutineers, to have him strangled. It was the course to adopt in such a situation, the wise and sober course by which to ensure the overthrow of one who from an obedient and submissive lieutenant had suddenly shown that it was possible for him to become a serious and dangerous rival.

Sakrel-Bahr watched the Basha's averted gleaming eyes under their furrowed, thoughtful brows, he saw Marzak's face white, tense and eager in his anxiety that his father should consent. And since his father continued silent, Marzak, unable longer to contain himself, broke into speech.

"He is wise, O my father!" was his crafty appeal. "The glory of Islam is above all else! Let him have his way in this, and let the infidel woman go. Thus shall all be well between us and Sakrel-Bahr!"

He laid such a stress upon these words that it was obvious he desired them to convey a second meaning.

Asad heard and understood that Marzak, too, perceived what was here to do: tighter upon him became temptation's grip; but tighter, too, became the grip of a temptation of another sort. Before his fierce eyes there arose a vision of a tall, stately maiden with softly rounded bosom, a vision so white and lovely that it endeavored him. And so he found himself torn two ways at once. On the one hand, if he relinquished the woman, he could make sure of his vengeance upon Sakrel-Bahr, could make sure of removing that rebel from his path. On the other hand, if he determined to hold fast to his desires and to be ruled by them, he must be prepared to risk a mutiny aboard the kalesse, prepared for battle and perhaps for defeat. It was a stake such as no sane Basha would have consented to set upon the board. But since his eyes had again rested upon Rosamund, Asad was no longer sane. His thwarted desires of yesterday were the despots of his wits.

He leaned forward now, looking deep into the eyes of Sakrel-Bahr.

"Since for thyself thou dost not want her, why dost thou thwart me?" he asked, and his voice trembled with suppressed passion. "So long as I deemed thee honest in taking her to wife I respected that bond as became a good Moslem; but since I manifest that it was no more than a pretense, a mockery to serve some purpose hostile to myself, a desecration of the Prophet's Holy Law, I, before whom this blasphemous marriage was performed, do pronounce it to be no marriage. There is no need for thee to divorce her. She is no longer thine. She is for any Moslem who can take her."

Sakrel-Bahr laughed unpleasantly.

"Such a Moslem," he announced, "will be nearer my sword than the Paradise of Mahomet."

And on the words he stood up, as if in token of his readiness.

Asad rose with him in a bound of a vigor such as might scarce have been looked for in a man of his years.

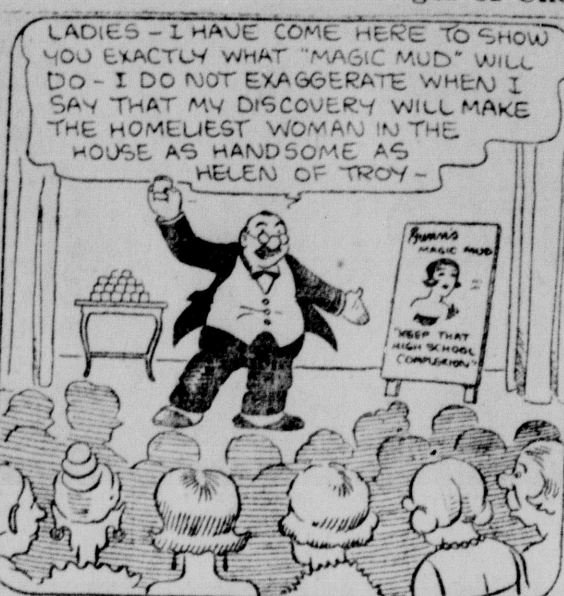

"Dost threaten?" he cried, his eyes alight.

"Threaten?" sneered Sakrel-Bahr. "I prophesy."

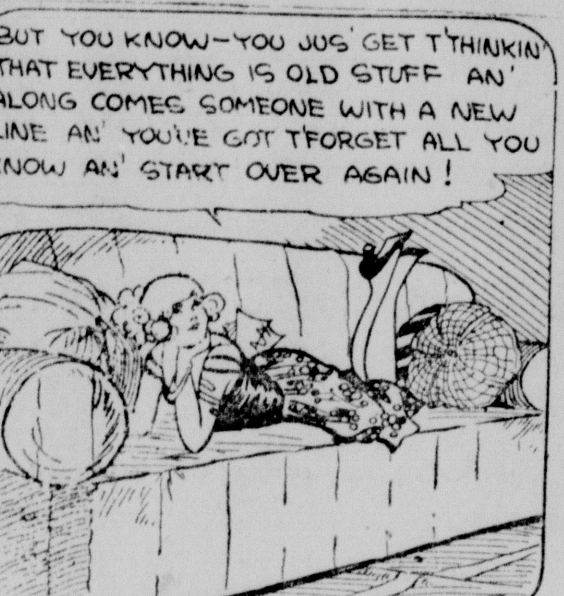

And on that he turned, and stalked away down the gangway to the vessel's waist. There was no purpose in his going other than his perceiving that here argument were worse than useless, and that the wiser course were to withdraw at once, avoiding it and allowing his veiled threat to work upon the Basha's mind.

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

Different Coat And Trousers

Formality is hard to sell to Americans whose cult is comfort. They like the loungey-and-leisurely type of dress. It came in with the spread of sports, the lure of country life and the multiplication of suburban clubs. It has a firm grip upon us that will not be loosened in a long time. Cross over to England and you meet men, even in humble circumstances, wearing cutaway coats and silk hats and fancy-pattern waistcoats and gaiters and carrying sticks. You will see rows upon rows of men at the theatre impeccably turned out in full evening dress. You will glimpse gray top hats and Ascot cravats at the race-courses. You will see correct dress worshipped as a religion and practised as a creed. You will quickly note that smart appearance is aided and abetted by king and prince, duke and earl, because it has helped to make Great Britain great, adding lustre to her illustrious name of being the best-dressed nation on earth.

What do you see in this country? You see the silk hat only atop the banker, the bridegroom and the cab driver—sounds and cke gadzooks!—and in an occasional caricature of the track-walking, fur-collared actor in the un-funny papers. You see a man correctly dressed in the swallowtail at an evening wedding, while others of us, incorrectly dressed in Tuxedo jackets, stare at him as though he were a two-headed calf. A certain amount of formality in clothes is needed to refine a man and his manners, for there is a direct relationship between one's dress and one's deportment. He who is correctly dressed lifts his hat to a woman; he doesn't tip it. He sits in a chair; he doesn't slump. He gets up when a woman enters the room; he doesn't sprawl with outstretched legs that she can trip over or not; he cares not.

The black or dark-gray sack coat together with striped gray worsted or cashmere trousers, pictured in the accompanying sketch, is an artful compromise between formality and semi-formality. It is intended for men who regard the cutaway coat as too extreme a style. It may, in larger communities, be worn to business during Autumn and Winter. It may suit you, fierce or gentle reader, or it may not, but it is a correct fashion. The hat is the black derby. The necktie is the wing collar and bow-knot tie.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Robert Foran, newspaper correspondent, accompanies the Theodore Roosevelt expedition into Africa in 1909. They arrive at Mombassa, the "gateway to British East Africa," and then go by train to the first camp on the game-crowded Kapiti Plains. With Colonel Roosevelt are his son, Kermit, and three scientific members of his staff—Major Edgar A. Mearns, Edmund Heller and J. Allen Loring.

After a successful shooting trip in the Sotik country, the expedition goes on for more hunting at a farm called Naivasha. They go next to Naivasha, then to Nairobi during the week, and then return to Naivasha. Foran acts as secretary to Colonel Roosevelt one morning, and answers many of the unusual letters addressed to the expedition.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

When we had disposed of the heavy mail letters, he started to dictate to me one of the chapters of his book. I did not know shorthand and so took his dictation straight down on my little typewriter.

He dictated quite slowly, walking about the room as he did so. We got along fairly well. The announcement that lunch was ready brought this interesting morning to an end.

CHAPTER XVI
Off to the Elephant Country

THE rain did not cease all day, and Roosevelt decided not to go shooting that afternoon.

There were only a few more specimens that were wanted here, mostly birds, and they could wait until it was fine weather. So we sat round the luncheon table in the hotel dining room and exchanged stories about hunting and other things connected with the country.

Next day was fine and the sun was shining, and it did not rain during the remainder of our brief stay at Naivasha. Every morning, after that first wet day, Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit rode off on a shooting trip.

One day Roosevelt brought back with him a great prize, which greatly delighted the heart of Mearns. He had had the great good fortune to discover and kill a fine specimen of the rarest of all African birds, the Jabiru. Its scientific name is Ethiopharynx senegalensis. That is what Mearns said it was—and his identification is beyond all question.

On another occasion, Mearns, Loring, Kermit and myself took Colonel Roosevelt out to try his luck by moonlight with the wily spring-hares and the African fox. At first he was somewhat nonplussed by the uncustomed nature of the sport, but he was soon hard at work and was most successful. He achieved better results, before the evening's sport ended, than anyone else had accomplished. He told me that he was highly amused by the novel experience.

At last, the day of departure for the elephant country dawned. The huge caravan started off, with much trumpeting of native horns and much singing. It gave me the impression of a huge, winding snake as it crept away in single file over the brown veldt toward Nyeri.

Colonel Roosevelt killed his first bull elephant near Kenya. I know how keen he had been to get a complete group of these elephants for the museum, and how anxious he had been to kill them in a cooler climate so that Heller could have a better chance of saving the complete skins and in good condition.

Although elephants are much bigger and have larger tusks in Uganda, yet the difficulties of preserving the skins in that country are enormous, owing to the terrific heat. Colonel Roosevelt, therefore, had been most anxious to secure his group in the less torrid climate of East Africa. To skin an elephant takes, at the lowest estimate, three whole days—no matter how proficient the skinners may be; and from this it may readily be understood that Heller and Cunningham had no light task to perform.

While Cunningham was helping Heller to save this first elephant skin, Colonel Roosevelt went off toward Mweru for a hunt, while Kermit and Leslie Tarlton hunted toward the northern Guaso Nyiro country. As usual, they were phenomenally successful. Colonel Roosevelt killed his second bull elephant near Mweru and Kermit killed five more hons and three more buffalo in the northern Guaso Nyiro.

After this great fortune they returned to the government Boma at Mweru, and then Kermit went off to hunt elephants. Colonel Roosevelt remained at Mweru while his second elephant bull was being skinned.

When Heller and Cunningham had accomplished this task, Colonel Roosevelt rode into the northern Guaso Nyiro, where Kermit had enjoyed such good sport. Here Colonel Roosevelt killed two more elephants, while Kermit killed one elephant and a very good rhinoceros.

After killing his elephant, Kermit, accompanied by Leslie Tarlton, started off for a hunt toward Lake Hannington and Lake Baringo.

CHAPTER XVII
Roosevelt and the Discovery of the North Pole

"Foran, Nairobi.

Cable Roosevelt's statement on Cook's discovering the North Pole. Melstone."

THIS Associated Press cable was placed in my hand one morning early in September in the Norfolk Hotel at Nairobi. Immediately I sent a telegram to Colonel Roosevelt at Nyeri, in the hope that it would reach him there and bring forth a statement for publication on this momentous event.

While I was waiting for a reply to this, and a few days after the receipt of the first cable from Mr. Melville Stone, I was given another cable from him in New York. This read: "Foran, Nairobi.

Peary also announces reached North Pole. Inform Roosevelt and endeavor to get his comment. Melstone."

This cable I also telegraphed to Colonel Roosevelt at Nyeri, and awaited his answer to both of them.

A few days later I received a further cable from New York, which read as follows:

"Foran, Nairobi.

Forward the following message to Roosevelt. Quote. Your farewell was a royal mascot, the Pole is ours. Peary."

Again I telegraphed Colonel Roosevelt at Nyeri; and so far had not received from him any answer to my two earlier messages. There was nothing to do but wait and be patient. It was quite possible that he was out of touch with the telegraph offices.

After some days of patient waiting, I received a letter written in pencil from one of his camps in reply to my three telegrams.

This letter was written before Kermit went off from Mweru for Lake Hannington and Lake Baringo, and Roosevelt for the Guaso Nyiro. The letter read:

On Safari,
Sept. 12, '09.

Dear Foran:

The three cables are at hand; I answer by letter, because I can't get to Mweru for a couple of days anyhow; and moreover I can explain better than by a mere cable.

If the news about Peary's having gotten to the North Pole is unquestionably authentic, and not otherwise, publish the following from me. "I rejoice over Captain Peary's great achievement. Too much credit cannot be given him; he has performed one of the great feats of the age, and all his countrymen should join in doing him honor."

As for the other two cables, I cannot make head or tail out of them. Who is Dr. Cook? What has he discovered? Why is he going to Copenhagen? How does it concern me, anyhow?

Since I last wrote you, I have killed two more elephants and Kermit has killed one also, and a rhinoceros. Soon Kermit and I separate, he going toward Lake Hannington, and I across to the Guaso Nyiro. Will you tell this to Ward, and the Reuter people?

Good luck!

Faithfully yours,
Theodore Roosevelt.
